This article describes the importance of education issues in personal development and its value today.

Key words: Education, a perfect person, raising a child in the family, spirituality, spiritual maturity, education, society.

Introduction. "Earth is to sense, feel and from the great changes in the sky man is awake to his surroundings in order to learn a lesson and take an example Our first president says that he should look with the eyes of the heart I.A. Karimov. If we look at the core of these thoughts, his whole that the essence of the content depends on the upbringing of the person and his psychology after all, every individual from birth to the end of his life truly, "Earth is the one who senses the changes in the sky and learns a lesson It is possible to say that you are experiencing exactly such processes

Only a person who forgives can grow as a person.

Eastern thinkers thoughts on education in his works: Abu Rayhan Beruni education and education about the purpose, tasks and position, about the development of a person, the young generation his thoughts were truly created on the basis of humanitarianism and humanism.

All thinkers of the principles of harmony of knowledge and education with nature can be observed in his works. He emphasizes that man is a part of nature. One of the main issues of Yusuf Khos Hajib's work is the perfect person is education. He is the most perfect in his works, of that period of society This is how he imagined a person who can meet his requirements basically, he consistently states his principles. "Kutadgu Bilig" ("Saadatga guiding knowledge"), which incorporates the guidelines, methods and measures of education and upbringing, spiritual maturity, ethics and is a spiritual source of etiquette. Alisher Navoi's "Khazayin-ul-Maoni",

"Mahbub-ul-Qulub" and other similar works are mature and perfect a person's morality, spirituality, attitude towards others, talent and Valuable comments were made about the ability. And Abu Nasr Farabi the importance of music knowledge in raising children morally and gracefully he says about it: "This science is useful in the sense that one's character if he has lost his balance, he will bring order, those who have not matured matures and balances those who are balanced keeps for a period of time.

Spiritual powers harmonize with their substance and order, comes to balance." Farabi is the last of his book "Isa-al-ulum". in the section: "The human mind is not limited only to knowledge, but also to habits and able to subjugate and direct views to their goals, can be changed," he writes. In his opinion, everyone good acquisition of knowledge, good and perfect upbringing, most must have good qualities. According to Farobi, the basic idea in a person - is happiness. All that is formed in children by means of education human and moral qualities should be focused on this.

Education is humanity, which arose at the beginning of human society the connection between generations, which has served for the interests if we talk about the upbringing of a child in the family, the child first.

He gets education in his family and matures there. Because of the person socialization takes place first in the family. Through family upbringing a certain political-ideological worldview, moral standards and patterns of behavior and physical qualities are inculcated. In our people "in the bird's nest. It is not for nothing that it is said that he does what he sees. Education is a specific, clear goal and comprehensive development of personality based on socio-historical experience, the process of forming his mind, behavior and worldview. In other words, education is a specific goal of the younger generation in order to bring to adulthood every step of the way, including social consciousness and behavior is an activity process focused on content creation. In different times and places.

The essence of social education is different, and its content is social based on goals. The idea of education is expressed in different ways although, according to the nature and object of orientation expresses unanimity.

Therefore, education is a person as well as an environment is one of the external factors affecting maturity. Education its feature is that it aims at a specific goal and brings out positive qualities in a person it is regularly carried out under the guidance of an educator in order to acquire content will go Education is the child's learning to find his place in the social environment and the acquisition of life skills and qualifications. Education in the center of the process is the process of knowledge and understanding of the person, his ability, learning science, unlike it, education makes a person a person formation, his outlook and attitude to society is focused. Education is not a separate process, but a part of education and has common and different sides with it. Education and training, basically, it is unique to the mechanism of acquiring social skills of a person aspects can be included.

The quality and nature of the person in the process of education, social behavior and forms, knowledge, skills and qualifications are considered.

Conclusion. In conclusion, it is possible to say that society at all stages of its development, it was worthy of the demand of the time the problem of educating the young generation has always been of urgent importance. Education is sustained by the teacher in the student in order to find content and form moral character and moral qualities educational impact on the mind of the student in the direction of a specific goal. Education is a social, spiritual and production process of a person for his spiritual and physical maturity in order to prepare for his work. It is a process of regular exposure. Therefore, it is educational to start raising a perfect person from the womb it is necessary. The child receives initial education in the process of communication with the mother from paying attention to his early childhood when raising a child it is necessary to start. Because of the life of knowledge acquired in early childhood it will have its effect until the end. Therefore, every product is perfect in order to raise a perfect person, you need to pay attention to him from a young age.
