Abstract: The content of my article is that how strong is the influence of artistic aesthetics, aesthetic taste, art and music for preschool children, and what is the intended purpose of teaching them? I am in favor of giving more freedom to creativity and art in children's lives. What results does freedom give us? For example, it allows us to better understand the worldview and personal qualities of children. Their inner experiences are more clearly expressed in creativity.

Keywords: dance, music, art, creativity, creative activity.

Introduction. Art himself/herself What is Art ? human internal the world, feelings, life how look artistic images through representative creative. Art is an activity this not only beauty create, maybe human his/her spirit deep reflection to hold is a tool of art. types very many and they variety different. Adults in life how importance profession if Same for children. So important importance Sometimes, people "children's art" among "Did you understand ?", " yet? " like a young child thoughts to our ears. But for children art to teach to him/her interest first of all their future professions to determine, internal abilities to determine, most important internal experiences manifestation to reach big help gives.

Main part. For example, descriptive art painting, sculptures making, graphics these children's worldview to grow, spiritually status knowing to get help gives. Currently painting activities in all MTTs strictly Educators and psychologists drawings with They work. Educators busy painting activity during takes if not, psychologists they through every with a child work. On the topic of the day related different pictures they draw, colors with Psychologists to children different assignments. For example, currently wide spread family picture draw, all children family members in the picture These pictures represent through in the family environment how ?, to the child attention where to the questions ? answer, Children more how from colors to use looking at internal spiritual status knowing to take possible. Therefore, drawing activities in children It is important and painting is also art. of the types one is considered.

Art of the types again one literature. Literature includes poetry, fairy tales, short stories, novels, etc. own inside This is art. type children in life important importance He/ She understands the child's feelings. shapes it, it good and evil distinguish beauty that can be obtained appreciative human as educates.

Literature is a means of education for children. Through fairy tales, children learn about good and evil, human qualities such as honesty, hard work, and friendship. For example, in folk tales, evil and bad habits are condemned and punished, and in the end, good triumphs. This strengthens moral values in children. Literature, that is, literary works, expands children's vocabulary. For example, by reading and memorizing poems, new words appear in them and helps develop their speech.

Music is the most widespread of the arts. It is impossible not to pay attention to music when discussing children. Music calms the child's mental state and instills in them feelings such as patience, kindness, and sensitivity. Cheerful melodies cheer up children, while calm music calms them. Studies have shown that children who are interested in music develop memory, attention, and thinking more actively. For example, singing in a group teaches children to adapt to a team and cooperate with others. Every morning in preschool educational institutions, children do physical education exercises, and this process is also carried out with music. I am a supporter of welcoming children with cheerful music every morning. It has a very positive effect on children's mood throughout the day. Movement with music in children improves their motor skills and coordination. It also reduces stress and improves sleep quality.

Discussion and results. Creative activity is the most necessary type of activity for MTT. In this, children develop various emotions and spend time more meaningfully. By staging a fairy tale, a child develops the skill of working with a team. You can learn a lot about children based on how they manifest themselves in a given role. Leaders stand out among them. It is very important to teach children who have difficulty joining a team to work individually and, in a team, and these are the tasks of educators. Folk tales are of great importance in introducing children to the world with kindness, and in all MTTs, more attention should be paid to fairy tales and folk oral art. When staging with children, they should be left alone and observed. Even when choosing roles, they actually reflect their interests or mental states.

The ongoing analysis shows that art is a tool that helps children develop their personality in all aspects. As the research revealed, in the process of engaging in creative activities, children acquire the ability to perceive artistic images and express their emotions. These processes are important in the formation of a child's thinking, emotional stability, and communicative competence.

During the discussion, it was determined that the integration of art into the educational process has a positive effect on the spiritual and mental development of the child. At the same time, it creates an opportunity for children to respect and appreciate national values. The results of the study confirm the opinions expressed in previous studies and show that they are in harmony with the present time.

Conclusion. Descriptive art, dance, music, artistic literature such as activity types children's speech, psychological, cognitive to develop complex impact shows. Art based on organization done activity types the children free to think, to think abilities free expression to achieve and to be collective in spirit to be educated wide opportunity creates. Art and education process together take to go that is integration in children motivation increase and psychological environment to the formation take comes. Creativity through upbringing children's national to their values respect with perspective, emotional sensitivity and spirituality culture develops. To art based educational activity in children aesthetic beauty understands and appreciate ability shapes.

Received scientific results based on this highlight okay, creative activity pupils in development strategic importance have was tool is considered. Therefore, for preschool education in organizations creative activity of training quality upgrade, modern equipment and modern methods current education, educators and music leaders qualification regular increase necessary. Art education development children's creative potential, abilities to the surface will issue and in the future aesthetic culture high perfect generations to be educated service does.
