In this case, interaction is based on the principles of student activation, group experience, and feedback. Therefore, an important condition for the development of creativity in students through interactive teaching methods and technologies is the creation of a free-creative environment in the educational process, the joint relationship of professors, teachers and students and mutual cooperation. action-based learning is to start the process.

Based on the modern dictionaries of psychology and pedagogy, it can be defined as the teacher's creativity, the level of his/her thoughts, feelings, communication, special activity, creative approach, level of knowledge. A teacher's creativity is his ability to find all kinds of original ideas in strict, limited or loosely limited conditions. Analysis of scientific literature allows to distinguish the following interrelated structural components of creativity.

In short, pedagogical competence is the manifestation of his theoretical and practical knowledge, skills and qualifications, worldview, faith and all personal, social and psychological qualities.

- In order to provide employment for women in preschool education organizations in cooperation with the district (city) department of employment assistance to hold job fairs and educate our girls professionally.

- Summarize the information on the work done and submit it to the district (city) Department of Preschool Education

In short, it is necessary to organize the development of this action plan in preschool education institutions under the "Five Important Initiatives" of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Also, the naming of days of the week in a preschool organization is as follows;

Day 1, My art is my pride

Day 2, Craft-inexhaustible treasure

Day 3, The Power of Book-Spirituality

Day 4, Sport-Peace Symbol

Day 5, Computer Literacy in Preschool Education Institutions.

One of the most important tasks is to bring up the young generation to be fully developed, mature, physically healthy and energetic. Therefore, it is necessary to make effective use of educational methods and tools to seriously engage in the growth and upbringing of our future child from an early age. When we talk about parenting, we need to keep in mind that play is the most beloved and enjoyable tool for children.
